RIDER PERSONAS · CASE STUDY

VELOCE

Nobody books a supercar on an ordinary day.

Five riders, five milestones they can't get wrong — and the same failure in every existing option: a form, a phone call, hours of waiting, and no visibility until the car shows up. This is who Veloce's instant-booking, transparent-pricing, live-tracked flow is actually built for.

IN THIS DOCUMENT

01 Ananya Rao — BRIDE

02 Rohan Mehta — PROPOSER

03 Priya Nair — BIRTHDAY CELEBRANT

04 Vikram & Sunita Desai — ANNIVERSARY COUPLE

05 Anil Kapoor — GIFT GIVER

01 BRIDE

Ananya Rao

> "I don't want to call three agencies and wait around for a callback. I want to book this the way I book everything else — and actually know it's handled."

Ananya is getting married in six months and wants a surprise supercar arrival at her wedding reception — a moment for her partner, and for the photos. She'll pay well above a normal ride for an experience this important, but has zero tolerance for uncertainty on the one day that can't be redone.

DEMOGRAPHICS

- Age 29 · Female
- Senior Product Manager, Fintech
- Bengaluru, India
- Income: ₹38,00,000/yr

TRAITS

- Detail-oriented planner
- Tech-native, expects instant service
- Pays a premium for certainty
- Low tolerance for ambiguity

MOTIVATIONS

- A flawless, camera-ready arrival
- Confidence nothing goes wrong
- Booking it like she books everything

Goals

- Book weeks out with a firm confirmation
- Know exactly which car & driver are coming
- Track the ride live on the day
- Skip the call-and-negotiate cycle

Frustrations

- Agencies require forms + phone calls
- Confirmation can take up to 4 hours
- Pricing feels negotiated, not fixed
- No visibility once "booked"

MAPS TO VELOCE · instant book-ride / confirm-ride flow · Razorpay fixed pricing · live track-ride visibility

02 PROPOSER

Rohan Mehta

> "If the car shows up two minutes late, the whole surprise is ruined."

Rohan is planning an elaborate rooftop proposal and wants a supercar to arrive at the exact right second as the centerpiece of the moment. Timing precision and live visibility matter to him more than anything else — a mistimed arrival ruins the surprise entirely.

DEMOGRAPHICS

- Age 31 · Male
- Software Engineer
- Bengaluru, India
- Income: ₹28,00,000/yr

TRAITS

- Detail-obsessed planner
- Anxious about timing
- First-time exotic-car booker
- Tech-savvy

MOTIVATIONS

- A perfectly timed, surprise-proof arrival
- Confidence the plan won't unravel
- A memorable story to tell

Goals

- Coordinate the exact arrival minute
- Track the car's live ETA while hiding at the venue
- Reach the driver directly if plans shift

Frustrations

- No real-time ETA from traditional agencies
- Can't reach a human quickly if timing changes
- No guarantee the driver understands the stakes

MAPS TO VELOCE · live GPS tracking · driver info / contact card · real-time ETA visibility

03 BIRTHDAY CELEBRANT

Priya Nair

> “This one's for me — I don't want it to feel like a transaction.”

Priya is turning 40 and treating herself to a memorable, camera-ready arrival at her own birthday party. She books solo and wants the whole experience to feel personal and effortless, not transactional like a car rental.

DEMOGRAPHICS

- Age 40 · Female
- Marketing Director
- Mumbai, India
- Income: ₹42,00,000/yr

TRAITS

- Independent
- Experience-driven spender
- Values polish over paperwork
- Active on Instagram

MOTIVATIONS

- A “made it” milestone moment
- A frictionless, personal-feeling booking
- A content-worthy experience

Goals

- Book quickly, no lengthy back-and-forth
- Feel like a guest, not a renter
- Enjoy the moment instead of managing it

Frustrations

- Rental processes feel transactional
- Long forms for what should be simple
- Uncertainty kills the treat-yourself feeling

MAPS TO VELOCE · one-tap booking (find-ride / book-ride) · recent-rides for easy rebooking · polished in-app experience end-to-end

04 ANNIVERSARY COUPLE

Vikram & Sunita Desai

> “We just want it simple enough that we don't need to call anyone.”

Vikram and Sunita are celebrating 25 years married with a vow-renewal supercar arrival. Less tech-fluent than the app's younger riders, they need the booking flow simple enough that their adult children can set it up for them, with a confirmation clear enough that they trust it happened.

DEMOGRAPHICS

- Ages 58 & 55
- Semi-retired
- Delhi, India
- Household income: ₹45,00,000/yr

TRAITS

- Less tech-fluent
- Value clear, simple confirmations
- Rely on family for digital tasks
- Cautious with new apps

MOTIVATIONS

- A meaningful, low-hassle celebration
- Trusting the booking went through
- Not needing to manage the tech themselves

Goals

- Let a family member book on their behalf easily
- Get unambiguous, jargon-free confirmation
- A simple day-of experience, no troubleshooting

Frustrations

- Complex apps/processes feel intimidating
- Unclear whether a booking “really” went through
- No one to call if something looks off

MAPS TO VELOCE · simple confirm-ride status screen · shareable booking confirmation · rides history any family member can check

05 GIFT GIVER

Anil Kapoor

> "I just don't want a surprise bill after the fact."

Anil is booking a supercar arrival for his daughter's 18th birthday / prom send-off. Since this is a one-off spend on someone else's moment, he's more price-sensitive than the app's other riders — transparent, fixed pricing matters to him more than anything else.

DEMOGRAPHICS

- Age 54 · Male
- Business Owner
- Pune, India
- Income: ₹25,00,000/yr

TRAITS

- Budget-conscious
- Protective, generous parent
- Wants no surprises
- Practical decision-maker

MOTIVATIONS

- Giving his daughter a memorable moment
- A fair, predictable price
- Avoiding regret over hidden costs

Goals

- See the full price before confirming
- Know there are no add-on fees later
- Make the day special without overspending

Frustrations

- Agencies negotiate pricing case-by-case
- Hidden fees appear after booking
- Hard to budget for in advance

MAPS TO VELOCE · transparent Razorpay fixed pricing shown upfront · no hidden fees · easy one-off booking, no long-term account needed